

New fabrics arrive every single day, making us wonder how the companies do it? How do they come up with one fantastic collection right after the next? Look in every corner during your next visit to see these fabrics and others that have come since these arrived!

If you need the perfect fabric for a fabulous baby or toddler quilt, Riley Blake's new "Safari Party" collection may be just what you are looking for! Stylish zebras, elephants, and giraffes are lined up amongst geometric prints at this party, and they brought a little sparkle along! The cool pink and grey color palette is touched with just enough golden sheen to add a hint of glitter to the crew. Fun, fantastical and funky - just our kind of party!

We are always on the lookout for cute, modern baby print panels to create quick gifts for the newest members of our families. Art Gallery has sent a great collection to help us accomplish just that. The group offers two different panel pieces along with several cute coordinates. The first panel offers four different images; three big bears, three cute cats, and two quotes - "there is no idea too wild, there is no dream too big" and "close your eyes and make a wish" (quotes appropriate for all?!). The other panel showcases two large, adorable sheep. Use them individually or with the coordinates to create a trendy, time-efficient piece for a new arrival in your life!

Cute critters are still all the rage in toddler town! Why not add some whimsy to a project with the cute "day dreamers" from Stoff? The stars of this collection are multiple delightful little sweet mice in warm shades of rust, sunflower, crimson, rose and dusty blue set against a light grey background. The coordinates of half eaten apples and tons of polka dots are a quirky addition to the group. We can see the mice peeking out from your next "I spy" quilt - will you let them wiggle their way into your heart?
